Why this itinerary?

|  | Reason                                                                                                                  |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|  | Only a 2-hour direct flight from Dhaka to Delhi – maximises time on the ground.                                  |
|  | Packs three of India’s most iconic UNESCO sites (Red Fort, Taj Mahal, Amber Fort) in a compact loop.                    |
|  | Uses 3-star hotels, private AC sedan transport and mid-range meals – comfortably stays well under ₹2 00 000 .    |
|  | All major attractions are covered with minimal back-tracking, leaving some free time for shopping or a relaxed evening. |

The live-flight data you shared does not include a Dhaka-Delhi option, so the above is the most common, economical non-stop service. Prices are typical 2026 economy-class fares; exact amounts will be shown at checkout.

How to book

1. Visit the Air India website or a trusted Indian travel portal (Cleartrip, MakeMyTrip, Yatra).
2. Choose “Economy – Standard” and add the 15 kg baggage allowance.
3. Complete the payment and download the e-ticket.

Visa – Bangladeshi citizens need an Indian e-Visa (₹4 000, 30-day stay). Apply 4-7 days before travel at <https://indianvisaonline.gov.in>.

3 Hotel Suggestions (3-star, breakfast included)

| City             | Hotel (recommended)                                      | Location                           | Nightly Rate (incl. taxes + breakfast) |
|------------------|----------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------|----------------------------------------|
| Delhi (3 nights) | Hotel City Star – Connaught Place                 | Central, near metro & major sights | ₹5 000                          |
| Agra (2 nights)  | Hotel Taj Resorts – Riverside, close to Taj Mahal | Near Agra-Fort, easy Taj access    | ₹4 500                          |

6 Final Recommendations

1. Book flights & hotels now – September is still a high-traffic month for Indian tourism; securing the Air India tickets and the 3-star hotels 4-6 weeks ahead will lock in the quoted rates.
2. Apply for the Indian e-Visa at least a week before departure (online, ₹4 000).
3. Consider a travel insurance policy (≈ ₹3 000) – it covers medical emergencies and unexpected trip changes.
4. Carry some cash (₹10 000-₹12 000) for street-food, small-shop purchases and tips; ATMs are abundant in Delhi, Agra & Jaipur.
5. Dress modestly for religious sites (cover shoulders & knees) and bring a light sweater for early mornings at the Taj Mahal.
6. Stay connected – a local Indian SIM (₹500 for 7 days data) can be bought at the airport; it's cheap and works everywhere.
7. If you have extra time or budget, you can add a half-day trip to Fatehpur Sikri from Agra (≈ ₹300 entry) or a cultural dinner show in Jaipur (₹1 200).
